NO OF PARTICIPANTS :	24

The National Service Scheme (NSS) unit of A.J. Institute of Engineering & Technology (AJIET), Mangaluru, organized a comprehensive activity program at the Primary School in Kodical, Mangaluru, on 17th February 2020. This initiative aimed to engage school children in various educational and extracurricular activities while promoting health and cleanliness in their environment.

Throughout the day, NSS volunteers interacted with the school children, guiding them through an array of learning processes designed to enhance their educational experience. They introduced innovative teaching methods and interactive learning sessions to make the educational process more engaging and effective. In addition to academic guidance, the volunteers encouraged participation in co-curricular activities, emphasizing the importance of a well-rounded education that includes sports, arts, and other non-academic pursuits.

A significant part of the program was dedicated to promoting health and hygiene. Volunteers conducted sessions on personal hygiene, the importance of regular handwashing, and maintaining cleanliness in the school premises and at home. They also led a Swachh Bharat Abhiyan campaign, wherein they, along with the school children, participated in cleaning the school campus and its surrounding areas. This hands-on activity aimed to instill a sense of responsibility and the importance of a clean environment among the students.
